

Michael Pauly joined Epicyte in 2001 as Director of Biotechnology and is responsible for internal Molecular Biology and Transformation, and research scale-up with external contract manufacturers. He previously worked as Research Director, Technology for Novartis/Syngenta and its programs in Plant Biotechnology, Plant Breeding and Genetics. Pauly received undergraduate degrees in Biological Sciences from Lewis and Clark College and in Crop Science from Oregon State University.