

Dominique Michaud is Head of the Horticultural Research Centre at Laval University, Québec City (QC), and Associate Professor of Plant Physiology and Molecular Biotechnology at the Plant Science Department of the same University. His main research interests include protein stability in transgenic plant systems, and control of cellular and extracellular proteolysis with recombinant proteinase inhibitors in various biological systems.