

Becky J. Bottino is Sr. Director of Product Development at CEPTYR™ located in Bothell, WA. Prior to joining CEPTYR™ she was Sr. Vice President of Technical Operations at NeoRx Corporation. While at NeoRx she also held positions as Vice President of Operations, and Director of Manufacturing and Product Development. At NeoRx, Ms. Bottino was responsible for recovery, purification, analytical testing, and regulatory strategy, which received FDA approval for the first clinical testing of a monoclonal antibody produced in transgenic corn. Ms. Bottino is a co-inventor on two patents and has authored several scientific publications. She holds a M.S. Degree in chemistry from the University of Washington and a B.S. degree from the University of Utah.