

Rachel Lattimore is a partner in the law firm of Arent Fox Kintner Plotkin & Kahn, PLLC, where her work focuses on regulatory aspects of plant- and animal-based biotechnology. She represents individual companies and industry organizations in dealings with the relevant governmental agencies, advises clients on product development, and represents the regulated community in administrative and U.S. federal court challenges