

Loïc Faye is Research Director at CNRS and the head of a CNRS research unit at the University of Rouen, France. Scientists working in his laboratory are studying protein targeting and post-translational modifications in the plant secretory pathway. The laboratory is also strongly involved in the development of strategies to improve both qualitatively and quantitatively the production of therapeutic proteins in transgenic plants.

For further details see www.univ-rouen.fr/UMR6037/