

Morvan

Patrick Le Morvan is a graduate of McGill University and holds a Ph.D. in Pharmacology from the Université de Montréal. His professional career spans more than two decades of R & D experience in the pharmaceutical industry. His primary area of interest has been the clinical development of new drugs. Over the years, he has held increasingly senior positions in several pharmaceutical companies in Canada including Merck Frosst Laboratories, Hoffmann-La Roche, and RPR (now Aventis). His current position is with Novartis Pharmaceuticals Canada as Director of Clinical Safety and Epidemiology. He is also chairperson of the Canadian Program Steering Committee of the Drug Information Association.